Traditional Bets vs.

Betting involves wagering on outcomes: you need to be able to predict the final score of a given sports event.

The most common type of bet is a moneyline, where you choose which team will win a given match.

Daily fantasy sports allow you to collect a fantasy sports team for one day by choosing (betting on) any player and earn points through those players' performance.

The goal is to choose a team that scores more points than your opponents.

Points are determined based on the given DFS site's scoring system.

DFS is designed for those who prefer a more interesting method of betting.

If you're good at predicting the final scores of sports events and prefer a more passive way of betting, then you'll most likely find traditional betting more suitable for yourself.
